LITTLEFIELD, THE JOCKEY, SUFFERING FROM

SHOCK.

All six of the favorites won their races at Morris sat a brunette with such eyes, such a complexion and such hair that she was watched with more eagerness than were the racers. Morris Park abounds in belies than were the racers. Morris Park abounds in belies and beanties, but this young woman was the fortunate possessor of loveliness of a sort as rare as it is admirable. One lamentable incident depressed the spirits of the spectators and aroused general regret. This was the fall of Reckon in the Bronxdale Handicap, and the injuries received by Littlefield, her rider. The accident happened on the hill at a point far distant from the finish judges, the stewards and the observers in the grand stand, but only a few hundred feet from the piace where Patrol Judge Fitzgerald was firstly and the injuries received by Littlefield, we have a short head from May Lose, who beat the first hand, after giving up the spectators into a hillarious or excited condition. The contest was heave in doubt. Minnehala, on the rail, led one of double value, or may have an additional pen this week and names the next president may exchange it after election for one of double value, or may have an additional pen the spectators was heave in doubt. CAW'S INK & PEN C feet from the place where Patrol Judge Fitzgerald was standing. Littlefield fell with much force and wa taken up insensible. This is the third bad fall which he has received in his career as a jockey. Dr. Ha brouck examined him after he had been conveye the clubhouse in the carriage which transports the starter to and from the scenes of his duties. It decided that no bones were broken, and could dete no evidence of serious internal injury. Littlefiel recovered consciousness in the clubhouse, but was to dazed and overcome by shock to give any account accident. Patrol Judge Fitzgerald thought the Reckon crossed her legs, tripped or stumbled. Sleipner was close behind her and fell over her, but Hayward, Sleipner's jockey, fortunately escaped injury. Reckon sleppner's jockey, fortunately escaped injury. Reckon and Sleipner did not appear to be dangerously damaged by their falls, but Reckon seemed to have burst a blood-vessel in some part of the race, as her nostrils were filled with blood.

Hayward told John A. Morris after the race that there was much crowding and jostling on the part of the jockeys when the accident occurred, and the stewards of the meeting met and questioned all the jockeys except Littlefield, who was unable to make a statement. From the admissions of the jockeys it was gathered that Covington on Wah Jim was doing some reckless riding when Reckon fell, and that some of the other boys were crowding Reckon into the fence. Covington is an imp in the saddle, and by no means a valuable element on the turf. If he were committed to some institution for the reformation of his riding, similar to the House of Refuge and the Westchesier Protectory, which aim to reform the morals of boys that are in many ways similar to covington the luff would be read to the golds. SixTH RACE—Selling. Seven furlongs. morals of boys that are in many ways similar to Covington, the turf would be the gainer. stewards warned all the jockeys against foul riding and reckless riding, and deferred further action until Littlefield should be able to tell his story.

If Recken and Sleipner had not fallen there is reason believe that the finish between Dr. Hasbrouck, Reckon, Sleipner and Nomad would have been most thrilling. They were all well matched at the weight the chances of Nomad, and did not put a dollar on him for first, second or third place. He teld all his friends not to back him. Nomad was ridden by Cox. and the betting was 39 to 1, 40 to 1, 50 to 1 and even 60 to 1 against him, but he ran an excellent race, and forced Doggett to ride the favorite. Dr. Herbarath forced Doggett to ride the favorite, Dr. Hasbrouck, with great vigor at the finish. The time was extremely fast for a mile over the bill run by a colt carrying 126 It was 1:39 3-4. The best previous mile at Morris Park was that of La Tosca, 1 :30 1-2, on October 10, 1891. La Tosca was a three-year-old filly, but she carried only 105 pounds.

Many turfmen thought that Fairy would run a far better race than she did. She was conspicuous in the second third of the race, but fell back in the last Possibly Fairy may be short of work. Trainer Allen has many horses to train, and has been very busy with Don Alonzo, Sir Francis, and Yorkville at 104, and others at light weights. Possibly he has been unable to work Fairy enough. But then Fairy never ran so well down the long homestretch at Morris Park, on the circular course, as she has run at other tracks. Kildeer was a poor third. Littlefield took the lead with Recker in the first furlong, but was passed by the lightly weighted White Rose, who, however, had more than enough after running six furlongs. The only contesting horses in the final furlong were Dr. Hasbrouck and Nonad. The Bronxdale Handicap brought out a start him at that weight over the Morris Park hill, fine handicap field, and will not be forgotten soon.

The maidens that ran in the first race were a slow.

The maidens that ran in the first race were a slow, poor lot. They took 1:15 to run six furlongs—contemptible time for Morris Park. Elmer was the odds of favorite, but Masher would have won caselly, it does that had no whip. When he raised his whip he let Masher's head drop. Doggett almost invariably does this when he has a whip. He ought never be allowed to use one. It must always be a mystery how Masher ever managed to get second place in the Futurity of 1896.

The secretarics of the Coney Island, Brooklyn and New York Jockey Clubs have kindly presented to George E. Smith 'e Pittsburg Phil's nine races in surfacesion, by so arranging the conditions that his colt Parvenus has had practical walkovers for his race without a break. This has become tedious. It is strange that one horse can win nine in an unbroken sectes that one horse can win nine in an unbroken sectes without incurring any penaities, and having a practical walkover every time. These gifts to Mr. Smith exhibit a sad lack of ingenuity and versatility in arranging the conditions of races. Only frommaster ran against Parvenue, and the result was a foregone checked.

A. L. Cassatt was present, and the plungers bet against Parvenue, and the result was a foregone conclusion.

A. L. Cassatt was present, and the plungers bet heavily on his filly, Balance, in the third race, which was for two-year-old maldens. Balance won easily, but F. A. E'ret's Bijove, who was second, and Nathan Stanus's colt Philanthropist, who was third, were remote outsiders in the betting.

Miss Maude, ridden by Hami ton, was the favorite at edds on for the Fachion Stakes, and cantered home. Minnehaha was second, but that place rightfully belonged to Lustre, whose trainer, Feakes, treats he as if she were Sevres porcelain, in danger of break and is any instant. Her work for this race was a mile in 1:51. What a ridiculous lack of preparation. Miss Mande worked not long ago a mile in 1:43-12. How can trainers, who neither work nor race their horses property expect to win stakes?

Starter Ferguson got the fields off well. Only one favorite won-Little Annie in the cond race-but the winners in the others were well sched except in the fourth. Each race was won sily. APPORTIONMENT CASES POSTPONED.

THE COURT OF APPEALS WILL HEAR ARGUMENT TO-DAY ON THEM.

Albany, Oct. 3 (Special).-The Court of Appeals upon mee'ling to-day, was confronted at once with Bean counsel to test the Legislative gerrymander lav passed by the late Democratic Legislature. General Rosendale was present to defend the act, and had as his assistants City-Attorney Kichel, of Roch ester, and H. J. Cookingham, of Utica. William A. Sutherland, of Rochester, who first assailed the gerrymander act in the VIIIth Judicial District, was present unconstitutional. His specific duty was to defend the Republican Board of Supervisors of Monroe County in their refusal to divide that county into Assembly districts under the Legislative Apportionment law William E. Scripture, of Rome, and J. F. Searl, of Utica, appeared in defence of the Republican Board of Supervisors of Oneida County in refusing to divide that county into Assembly districts under the Apportion-ment law. . Edward H. Risley, of Utica, appeared in behalf of George E. Carter, of that city, who recently applied for a mandamus to compet secretary of state Rice to issue election notices under the Legislative Apportionment law of 1879.

No sooner had the court met than Mr. Sutherland informed the judges formally that he desired to be heard upon the suit to test the constitutionality of the Legislative Apportonment law. It was important, he said, that argument on the suit he heard at once and a decision be given upon it, since the Election Code provided that nominations in Assemily districts

Attorner-General Rosendale said he joined Mr. Sutherland in a request for an immediate hearing upon the suits, which no one could dispute were of the highest importance. He hoped the Court of Appeals would grant a hearing on all the suits and decide the rest point at issue, namely, the constitutionality of the Legislative Apportionment law, Chief Judge Earl listened placidly to these statements and then said: "We have had some con-Menis and then said: "We have had some con-ference on these cases, and we have decided to hear arguments upon all the cases to morrow at 10 delock." This arrangement was satisfactory to both the Repub-lican and the Democratic lawyers, as insuring an early consideration and decision of the suits. Mr. Suther-land will make the chief argument to morrow, as-sailing the constitutionality of the law.

GOVERNOR PLOWER'S TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Governor Flower left here today for Buffalo, where he will deliver an address of welcome to morrow morning to the National Convention of Real Estate Dealers. After that he will start on a tour of in-pection of the Eric Canal. He has made a similar trip over the Champlain Canal, and his observations have led him to the conclusion that $25,000 will be sufficient for repairs there, in stead of the $160,000 a ked for last year, and which stead of the $160,000 a sed for met year, and which he vetoed. Discussing the Eric Canal, the Governor said: "I do not believe in the scheme of enlarging the locks on the Eric Canal, or in the large appropria-tions asked for for this work. I purpose to make the trip through the Eric Canal and see for myself where necessary repairs are needed. The Superin tendent and an engineer will be with me, and I will tell them to note the places and what is needed as we go along and find defects. I am told that there is a piace on the canal where it overflows at certain seasons of the year, and floods a stone quarry. seasons of the year, and doors a stone quarry. The owners of these quarries kept the Court of Claims busy paying them damages. I believe in spending $25,000 or $50,000 at such places, rather than paying out $100,000 every year for damages. There are a lot of fellows who make a living in this way by getting damages allowed in the Court of Claims."

The game at the Polo Grounds yesterday was not the kind of baseball to stir up the spectators into a hilarious or excited condition. The contest was eighth inning.

Inks is one of the Brotherhood phenomena discovered by John Ward during the late basebull unpleasantness. With better support his sufferings would have been less keen. The work of the New would have been less keen. The work of the New-York team throughout was good, Burke making the only blunder through overconfidence. Lyons stole second base four times in succession, which is about the record for the year. It was probably a good thing for Doyle that he had little or nothing to do, as he did not appear to be himself. King pitched superbly up to the last inning, when he "slowed up," and the Washingtons made their only runs. The score:

EASTBOUND SHIPMENTS DECLINING.

Chicago, Oct. 3 (Special).—Eastbound shipments showed a slight decline last week, as compared with those of the previous week, but the difference was so slight as to be hardly werth noticing. The Michigan Central continues to lead all the others, with the Lake Shore a close second. Little is heard of secret rate cutting under these cir-e imstances, and any of it that is done is unlikely to cause the adoption of extreme measures.
